An evaluation of ACLS training in the PharmD curriculum found that confidence in basic life support exceeds knowledge, highlighting the need for repetition of skill-based competencies.